What are spaying and neutering?

- Spaying and neutering are surgical procedures which prevent animals from being able to have babies.
- Females are spayed and males are neutered. Spaying and neutering is also known as "fixing."
- Your pet will be more content— less likely to roam, fight, bark, or howl.
- Your pet will be healthier— sterilization reduces the risk of breast, uterine, prostate, and testicular cancers and problems.
- You won't have to find homes for offspring— it is a lot of trouble and sometimes you get stuck with the kittens or puppies.
- Reduces spraying in males and stops the mess of females in heat.
- It's less expensive in the long run—medical expenses for pregnancies can be high, not to mention the additional costs associated with veterinary care and feeding more animals.
